

IEA

Institute for Graduate Students

Theme:

Global Studies : Methodological Approaches and Case Studies

Venue: Centre de Recherche et de Documentation du Sénégal, Saint-Louis

Date : from December 13-14, 2018

This Institute for graduate students was made possible by the generous funding and support of the Volkswagen Foundation, the Fondation Maison des Sciences de l'Homme in Paris and the University Gaston Berger of Saint-Louis, Senegal

Global Studies Doctoral Seminar in Saint Louis du Senegal

from 13-14 December, 2018

A Global Studies Doctoral Seminar will be organized as a following events of the International Conference 'Colonial Cities in Global Perspectives, Saint-Louis, Senegal, December 10-12, 2018'. It will take place in Saint-Louis, Senegal from December 13 to 14, 2018. The selected doctoral fellows will work with the Global Studies experts around a program that best captures their interests and allows them to reach their intellectual and professional potentials and inquiries. The seminar will be conducted by scholars committed to providing the fellows the necessary skills they require for enriching their dissertation and for developing a successful career.

The fellows will gain a thorough understanding of the interconnections and interactions taking place across the world.

The doctoral seminar will be dedicated to Global Studies and will aim:

- to provide an opportunity to both the experts and doctoral students to share and exchange ideas;
- to explore the relations and the interrelations between cities, states, societies, climatic and socio-economical changes through the diachronic and synchronically perspectives;
- to allow students to identify and analyze these interactions and their outcomes.

The Global Studies seminar fellows will be provided with tools and material (historical, anthropological, sociological, geographical, etc.) they need to shape their specialization.

With the supervision of local and international experts, the global seminar will increase the way of thinking critically about global changes, and offer solid training to utilize the acquired knowledge in order to become agents of positive change on global issues that are key in the region, and elsewhere around the world. The major goals are to boost their critical thinking and shape how to study a particular problem in a consistent and rigorous way.

The seminar will include lectures presented by the senior scholars. It will offer a space for the doctoral students to present their work in progress and interact with the senior scholars. The languages of the seminar are English and French.

Tentative Schedule,

Thursday, December 13, 2018

9h00-11h00

Session 1: Theme: Global History and Global studies

Chair: Prabhu P. Mohapatra , University of Delhi,

- 1- Sven Beckert: , Harvard University,
Theme: What is Global Studies and How to approach Global Studies?
- 2- Charles Maier, Harvard University,
Theme: to be precised
- 3- Rafael de Bivar Marquese, Lab Mundi, University of Sao Paulo Doha
Thème : Time Layers and Global History

11h00-11h30

Tea/Coffee Break

11h30-13h30

Session 2: Theme: Global Studies and Thematic approach

Chair: Isaie Dougnon, IEA Nantes/Fordham University, New York

- 1- Pepijn Brandon, IISH, Amsterdam,
Theme: Global Labour History
- 2- Leo Luccasen IISH, Amsterdam
Theme: Migration: Global approach
- 3- Dennis Galvan, University of Oregon
Thème : ( to be precised)

13h30- 15h00 Dejeuner/Lunch Break

15h00-17h00

Session N°3 – Global Studies: Cases of Study

Chair: Dah Dieng, University Gaston Berger of Saint-Louis, Senegal

- 1- Benjamin Steck, University of Le Havre, France
Theme: Logistic and Transportation in Africa: Coastal areas versus Hinterland
- 2- Jose Barucua, University San Martin, Argentina, (History)
Theme: Vers une histoire globale des éléphants.
- 3- ZHU Ming, East China Normal University
Thème : The Reconstruction of Shanghai between French Empire and Chinese Nation State

Friday, December 14, 2018

9h00-11h00

Session 4: Theme: Global History and Global studies: Sources and Methodology

Chair: Sarah Zimmerman, Western Washington University

- 1- Maria Ngrosz Ngate, Indiana University, USA,
Theme: Global Studies and Methodology
- 2- Donald Weber, Institute of Social History, Belgium,

Theme: “Methodology, heuristics, digitalization, oral sources and other best practices of social research”

11h00-11h30

Tea/Coffee Break

11h30-13h30

Session 5: Junior Scholars Approaching Global Studies

Chair: Jean-Pierre Dozon, Fondation Maison des sciences de l'Homme, Paris, France

1- Zhe XU, East China Normal University

Theme: Trade and Colonization: the Rise and the Fall of Bagamoyo

2- Chi Zhang: , East China Normal Universi

Theme: La ville idéale de la reconstruction et de la restructuration du Sénégal, du point de vue de la philosophie culturelle de négritude Senghorienne

3- Mamadou Kouma, IEA Saint-Louis

Thème : Dakar, entre le cosmopolitisme et la tyrannie de l'informel

4. Amadou Tidiane Mballo, University Cheikh Anta Diop de Dakar, Senegal

Thème : Industries extractive et globalization : Exemple des Industries Chimiques du Sénégal

Concluding Remarks: Building junior scholars research capacities: Challenges for the future

Charles Maier, Global History Network -Harvard University, USA

Jean Pierre Dozon, Fondation des Maisons des sciences de l'Homme, Paris, France

Babacar Fall, Institut d'Etudes avancées de Saint-Louis du Sénégal